Sub: Guidelines for faculty members for engagement in teaching assignment outside the Departmental work allocation.

Based on the recommendations of the Deans Committee at its meeting held on 24.1.2017, the following guidelines for faculty members for engagement in teaching assignments outside the departmental work allocation, have been approved by the Director for implementation with immediate effect.

Guidelines:

1. While specialized lectures help in fostering academic collaboration and qualify as academic outreach activity, the IIT Delhi academic staff will not engage in the regular teaching of curricular courses in other institutes and universities during the semester.
2. In exceptional cases, limited participation in teaching courses in other institutes and universities will be allowed subject to the following conditions:
 - (a) At most 8 hours of lectures in a semester (including weekends) which could be in some specialized area of the faculty that is likely to motivate research collaboration.
 - (b) Requests for taking up such assignments will be submitted through Head of the concerned Department/Centre/School on the basis of an invitation letter specifying the terms of engagement for the approval of the Dean (Faculty). A form for seeking such approval is enclosed.
 - (c) The concerned faculty member will apply for an appropriate leave like CL or EL wherever necessary.
 - (d) The host institution should not project or publicize such engagements as any formal or part-time association of the faculty with the said institution as Visiting or Adjunct position.
3. The above guidelines do not apply to research seminars, institutional mentoring activities mandated by the government or covered under any special inter-institutional MoU.

All Heads of Departments/Centres/Schools are requested to kindly bring the above guidelines to the notice of all their faculty members for their information and necessary action.
